10 THINGS...

At Norwich Food and Drink Festival

It's nearly time for the annual free Norwich Food and Drink Festival, sponsored by Norwich solicitors Cozens-Hardy. For something different to treat dad with on Father's Day, head to The Forum on Sunday from 10am-5pm, where the city will be transformed into a celebration of the region's food and drink.

Scenes from the Norwich Food & Drink Festival 2017 Picture: ARCHANT

1 Battle of the Bangers promises sizzling fun by pitting sausage makers from across Norfolk against each other, in the last such competition ever, so don't miss it!

2 Norfolk's newest gin will be launching. Samples of WhataHoot will be given away throughout the day

3 Marvellous Machinery, Ben Burgess invites you to get up close and personal with some of the latest state-of-the-art tractors

4 The Adnams Pop Up Festival Bar, which this year features Norfolk Raider Cider and coffee from the team at Green Farm

5 Cookery Demonstration Theatre, featuring some of the county's best-loved chefs, including Kate Barmby, former Great British Bake Off contestant

6 The Producers' Street Market sponsored by Lovewell Blake, with more than 40 local food and drink producers to tickle the taste buds

7 Foodie Fun Zone, promising fun foodie activities for younger visitors with activities from Orchard Toys and The British Science Association

8 Live music and a hog roast with violinist Alison Sparrow and band Headrush

9 Splat the Dad - what better way to celebrate Father's Day than to throw a soggy sponge at dad!

10 Street Food Market offering a range of hot and cold and sweet and savoury dishes to suit all tastes